Girls Entertained—This morning girls of the State Industrial school were taken for a bob-sled ride by the officers of the school and this afternoon, they with the boys of the institution, will be entertained at the Orpheum by Manager Goss. Street car courtesies are being extended to the students by the Ogden Rapid Transit company.

Christmas Dinner—The annual Christmas dinner is being served to the inmates of the county jail today, much to their delight.

New Liquor House—The building formerly occupied by the Isle theater, on Washington avenue, near the corner of Twenty-fourth street, is being remodeled for Thomas Foley, who will open a wholesale and retail liquor business about January 1.

Superintendent T. P. Rowlands of the Southern Pacific will leave this afternoon for the west, to be gone several days.

Born—To the wife of Fred J. Vause, 2655 Adams, a 9 1-2 pound girl—a delightful Christmas present.

Twenty Below Zero—Heavy snow north and west of Ogden followed by unusually cold weather has delayed all trains entering the city. Extreme cold weather is reported in Wyoming where the thermometer is said to have dropped to twenty below zero in some places.

From Raft River—J. B. Crisp, foreman for Kehoe Brothers, is in from Raft river, Idaho. He says the new electric road, being surveyed through that country, will bring Ogden within three hours ride of the Kehoe ranches.

George Lewis Buried in Omaha—George Lewis, former special agent for the Union Pacific with headquarters at Ogden, who was shot by a man, angered by a report officially made by him, was buried in Omaha under the auspices of the Elks lodge, in which order he had a host of friends. A beautiful floral offering of American Beauty roses from the Ogden B. P. O. E. No. 719, was noted by the family among the hundreds of testimonials of esteem received from Mr. Lewis' host of warm friends who mourn his untimely death.

Arthur Chester and family of Ogden have moved to Coalville and will more than likely spend the winter there.

RANGE SHEEP ARE DOING WELL

This time, a year ago, sheepmen throughout the country were worried over range conditions and they were so discouraged that many of them would have sold their flocks at alarmingly low figures. The ranges were covered with a heavy, crusty snow in sections near the fall ranges but there was scarcely any snow on the desert lands where there was winter feed. The winds were severe and it seemed impossible to move the sheep to places where they could live on the range forage. A great deal of money was spent for grain and in many instances it was difficult to get corn and cereals to the herds.

At this time, however, the flockmasters say, there has never been more encouraging conditions on the range. Fred Harrington came in from his sheep camps in the vicinity of Lucin, Saturday, and he says the ranges were never in better condition and that he has never seen the sheep looking better. There is plenty of snow on the desert ranges and it is not difficult to move the sheep to those places. The entire country in eastern Nevada is covered with ample snow to furnish water for sheep and the feed is plentiful. He says there has been but little loss in sheep this winter.

Hotel, coffee house and restaurant employes in Serbia must not be kept on duty more than twelve hours during the day or ten hours at night.

POSTOFFICE HAS BEEN RUSHED

Postmaster L. W. Shurtliff states that the heavy part of the holiday mail work is over, but there are great wagon loads of Christmas mail still before the clerks.

The postmaster says that the large parcels are not so difficult to handle as are the little ones, post cards being classed among the most arduous mail matter to handle. They come to the postoffice in almost countless numbers and it requires as much time to take care of them as it does sealed envelopes carrying letters.

Santa Claus has done a great business this year, the postmaster said, "and surely there must have been much good cheer distributed to the people of Ogden. We can hardly estimate the number of parcels we have handled and it has required much work to do it. We have had extra help, however, and have accomplished the task quite satisfactorily."

DRIVER OF CAR WAS INTOXICATED

Salt Lake, Dec. 25.—A. W. McCune, Jr., 39 years of age, part owner in an automobile garage at 121 West South Temple street, son of A. W. McCune, multimillionaire, was placed under arrest at 4 o'clock yesterday morning by Patrolmen Frantz and Stiles. At the police station he was booked on an open charge, but he is being held in prison, without bail, pending the result of injuries received by Mrs. T. B. Shaw, 715 East Eighth South street, who was struck by an automobile driven by McCune at the corner of Seventh East and Eighth South streets, Saturday night at about 11:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Shaw is at the Groves L. D. S. hospital, and she is not expected to survive her injuries another twenty-four hours. As a result of the accident, Mrs. Shaw sustained a fracture of the spine at the joint of the eleventh rib and two broken ribs. Already the entire lower portion of her body is paralyzed. At an early hour this morning it was believed by the attending physicians that she would probably die within a few hours.

S. M. Barlow, chief of police, said last night that in case Mrs. Shaw died, it is probable that a charge of manslaughter will be sworn against McCune. Although relatives of McCune exerted every effort last night to get him out of prison on bonds, Chief Barlow and County Attorney I. E. Willey flatly refused to release the prisoner.

There are three versions of the accident: that of McCune, that of Dan McGuire, a saloonkeeper who was riding beside McCune, and that of T. B. Shaw, employed by the Troy laundry, husband of the injured woman and who saw his wife struck down by the automobile.

"My wife and I left the Wandamere car at the corner of Seventh East and Eighth South streets, a short distance from our home, at about 11:30 o'clock Saturday night," said Mr. Shaw. "Two other people alighted from the car at the same time as ourselves, but I do not know who they were."

"We stood near the car until it started running southward, then we started eastward across the street. I saw and heard the automobile approaching. While still almost half a block away it appeared to me that it was traveling at the rate of about forty miles an hour. I became confused and ran across the street to the sidewalk, while my wife remained on the track."

"By the time I leaped to the sidewalk the machine had reached us. I cannot explain the accident exactly, but I saw the machine pin Mrs. Shaw to a telephone pole."

Mr. McCune stopped the machine. When I asked him who he was he at first said his name was Will McCune; then he said his name was Olson. He appeared to be very drunk and his speech was incoherent, although he attempted to speak quietly."

NEVADA CODE VERY NEARLY COMPLETE

The supreme court judges have about finished the editing of the new code. They are now preparing the index, which is a big job in itself. It is believed that this will be finished early this week, which practically completes the work so far as the jurists are concerned. When finished, the two volumes, including the index, will make about 2700 pages, and will be the most complete law book ever edited or printed in this section. It is regarded as one of the most important publications ever undertaken by the state—Carson News.

BROKE BOTH BONES OF HIS LEG

George W. Paget, chief clerk of the railroad signal service, fell Saturday, breaking both bones of his right leg. Mr. Paget had been just called for supper at his home at 2571 Washington avenue and fell on the stairs twisting his leg in such a manner that the bone was snapped just above the ankle.

It is not expected the injury will result in any permanent lameness, but it will confine Mr. Paget for several weeks.

EDWARD M. ROWE PAROLE OFFICER

Edward M. Rowe, principal of the Spanish Fork high school, has been appointed state parole agent by the board of trustees of the Industrial school at Ogden, to succeed E. J. Milne, who resigned a few weeks ago.

Milne will go into the insurance business after the first of the year. He was the first state parole officer and has held the position for about nine months.

Rowe, who takes up his new work January 1, was given a farewell testimonial by the townspeople of Spanish Fork last Thursday night, at which he and Mrs. Rowe were presented with a beautiful silver service. He has resigned from the high school there, though his successor has not yet been named.

Rowe is also a member of the incoming city council and was to have taken his seat next week. His accession to the office of state parole agent will necessitate the election of another man by the council. He is also a member of the high council of Nebo stake and his removal to Ogden after the first of the year will be followed by the appointment of another to take his place.

Mr. Rowe has been principal of the high school at Spanish Fork for several years, prior to which time he taught in the district schools of Utah county for years. He attended the University of Utah, Brigham Young university and the University of California.

NEW TOWN OF METROPOLIS

Salt Lake, Dec. 25.—Frank B. Gawan, superintendent of construction for P. J. Moran, contractor, returned yesterday from Nevada, where he is in direct charge of the work on the big Bishop Creek dam, fourteen miles below Wells. The dam, which is rapidly nearing completion, is a part of the gigantic irrigation project now being carried out in that section by the Pacific Reclamation company which has established the new town-site of Metropolis as the future center of a vast area of rich land that will be placed under irrigation and made productive.

The big project comprehends the reclaiming of thousands of acres of land around the townsite of Metropolis, fourteen miles north of Wells. By constructing the dam in Bishop Creek canyon, three miles from what is known as "U-7" ranch, millions of cubic feet of Bishop Creek water will be conserved and distributed over thousands of acres by an extensive system of fifty miles of canals. The dam is to be of earth embankment with a rock core wall and an 8-inch concrete face. When completed it will be eighty-five feet above the present flow-line of the creek, 400 feet long and one of the biggest of its kind in the country. Its total cost will aggregate $150,000.

"We are now working a force of 300 men and 100 teams daily on the dam," said Mr. Gawan last evening. "In starting we went forty-five feet below the surface for a cutoff base. At the present time construction has progressed to a point forty feet above the flow-line of the creek. The work will have been completed and ready for use within sixty-five days."

"In the heart of the area that will be reclaimed, the townsite of Metropolis has been laid out and a new, modern hotel of fifty rooms has already been completed. The hotel will open next Friday night with a grand ball. Special trains will be run from Wells to Metropolis over the recently constructed spur line from the Southern Pacific main road. The new bank of Metropolis is now in course of building and will have been completed within the next thirty days, when it will open for business. There are already two good-sized restaurants at Metropolis and a number of stores will soon be established. Land sales are increasing rapidly, and many settlers, who realize the future desirability of the section, are flocking in to get on the ground floor. The community is building up rapidly. Of the fifty miles of irrigation canals to be constructed, twenty-five miles already have been completed."

SOUTHWORTH GOES TO HAWAII

Henry Southworth, accompanied by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ella Southworth, passed through Ogden yesterday afternoon on their way to California. Mr. Southworth has been given a position in the engineering department of the government at Honolulu and he will proceed to that point from California.

Mrs. Ella Southworth's son has charge of a corps of engineers for the United States in Hawaii, and he offered Henry a position as soon as he was acquitted of the charge of murder by the jury Sunday morning.

MARRIED AT THE UNION DEPOT

An unusual marriage ceremony was performed yesterday evening at the Union station in which Benjamin Garr, son of Benjamin F. Garr of 801 Washington avenue, and Miss Laura Lund, daughter of Otto Lund of 330 Adams avenue, were united.

Garr was formerly captain of the High School cadets and about a year ago enlisted in the army and was sent to the Mexican border. Garr is now on his way to the Philippines and was met by Miss Lund at the depot yesterday, where they were married. Immediately afterward Garr resumed his journey.

It is expected Mrs. Garr will join her husband, as he has two years more to serve in the army. It will be a long wait for the young bride.

This is a rather unique wedding for it is not often that marriages are performed where the honeymoon starts two years after the marriage ceremony.

BAPTISTS AT CHRISTMAS SERVICES

The services at the Baptist church yesterday, both morning and evening, were marked by simplicity, earnestness and interest. The musical program in the morning was one of merit and excellence. Mr. Jay Smith, tenor, and Mr. A. J. Greaves, baritone, delighted the audience with solos, and in a duet their voices made a happy combination. Miss Ruth Johnson, as pianist, contributed to the excellence of the musical program.

The Christmas sermon dealt with the message of peace, and of the prophet's vision when war shall be no more. If even international peace should be desired, it is at this season of the year. The sermon closed with an appeal that the message of the Christmas angels and the vision of the prophet might be fulfilled here and now.

The Christmas exercises by the Sunday school in the evening at 7:30, in charge of Mrs. J. B. McCracken, were exceptionally good. The program on India, of a Christian character, was presented. The music was in charge of Mr. J. W. Ramey. The Christmas tree was in view of the audience.

Tonight at 7:30 the school will meet for services. Santa Claus will be on hand and an invitation is extended to all members and friends of the school and church to attend.

WORK AT THE DAM SITE IN CANYON

Manager J. P. O'Neill of the O'Neill Construction company is in the city, spending Christmas with his family. He came down from his camps at the Cobble Creek dam site Saturday evening, but will return to the work tomorrow.

Mr. O'Neill says that the end of the work in stripping the dam site for the big South Fork reservoir project is in sight and that, if no unforeseen difficulties are encountered, the job will be completed Saturday night. He has twenty-five men at work removing the dirt from the bedrock and good progress is being made.

The big derrick has been removed to another position and the flume to carry the water of the creek over the proposed site has been completed. Mr. O'Neill says that the last hole for bedrock has been sunk, the bedrock having been uncovered at a depth of 31 feet, and that the depth to be reached at other points over the river channel is definitely fixed.

The bedrock is being uncovered the full width of 18 feet, there remaining but a short distance to be done. Substantial bedrock has been uncovered across the Cobble Creek dam-site so far, and it is anticipated that there will be no difficulty encountered in finding bedrock in the territory where the work is now being done.
